

Live together according to the Arian Style

In the name of the God of affection, friendship, kindness, purity, correlation and unity Today is a magnificent and passionate day because the righteous God of affection, correlation and unity of hearts is bringing near two pure and free soul together and unites them.

On this day two looks associate each other and a heart full of the passion of love beats for the other, an affectionate hand is ready to touch another kind hand. The pleasant odour of friendship, unity and sympathy scatters about and the songs of rejoicing and cheerfulness tingles and some of the guests dance to honour the Arian nature and to transfer the philanthropy and affection to their descendants just as Cyrus did. In this way, the first firm stone of sympathy, unity and affection is being founded and the foundation of a sensational hearth establishes.

So, praise to love, the luminous and bright love which under its glowing light the souls repose and the spirits rejoice. Praise to loving which is the source of all beauties in the world. Praise to marriage which is the hearth of affection and unity and praise to the warm bosom of family from which the wife and the husband find their peace, tranquillity and eminence and under its protection the fruitful children are being borne and trained who link the past to the future and give life to existence.
